

Directory of Housing Resources for Returning Citizens

The following housing list is a compilation of available housing options for citizens returning to the District of Columbia from incarceration. Halfway houses included in this chart are available for individuals under supervised release. The halfway house information is for informational purposes only, as residing in one of these locations is reserved for referrals from CSOSA and BOP. The other housing options are classified by the stated definitions below. CJCC defined the housing options contained in this list based on the services provided in the housing facility, therefore definitions may not necessarily reflect the type of housing with which a location self-identifies.

The majority of the housing options were obtained from the Public Defender Service Housing Directory and from the Office on Returning Citizen Affairs. Once the housing options were identified, they were classified into the appropriate categories presented below. A representative from each housing resource was called and asked a series of questions in an effort to obtain information pertaining to entry and eligibility requirements, services provided for residents, other general inquiries.

Shelters-Overnight: Overnight shelters are available on a first come, first serve basis. Individuals must depart on a daily basis and are permitted to return at a designated time. The majority of these shelters provide a bed, meals, and shower facilities.

Shelters-Temporary: Temporary shelters are shelters that permit individuals to stay for a longer specified duration than overnight shelters, but do not necessarily offer wrap-around services.

Transitional Housing: Transitional housing provides stable housing and wraparound services to individuals in an effort to transition them to Permanent Supportive Housing.

Single Room Occupancy: Single Room Occupancy is affordable housing that is not linked to any other supportive services.

Permanent Supportive Housing: Supportive housing is affordable housing linked to accessible mental health, substance addiction, employment, and other support services. There is no time limit attached to residence in permanent supportive housing.

Public Housing: Public Housing units provided by the D.C. Housing Authority after an application process.
